THE YACHT RACE.

The Volunteer Wins Easily---A Splendid Race.

The Scotchman Three Miles Astern at the Finish.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., 8:55 a. m.—The weather this morning is even worse than yesterday. Within the past two hours an unusually heavy fog has fallen, completely shutting the water from view. There is a little wind overhead from the east. Very few think there can be a race. The Thistle is at the Hook, the Volunteer has not yet come down.

9:20 a. m.—Very foggy. The anemometer at Sandy Hook registers the wind 12 miles an hour from the east.

10:23 a. m.—The wind is slowly but surely driving the fog over into the wilds of Jersey. The yachts are now going out past the Hook and a start will surely be made. The wind is now fourteen miles.

10:42 a. m.—The preparatory gun was fired at 10:32, and the starting signal has just been fired at 10:42. The yachts are now manœuvering for a start. Wind fifteen miles.

10:48 a. m.—The yachts crossed the line about 10:45. The haze prevented the exact time being taken from this point. It is thought that the Volunteer had a slight advantage as they went over. They are very close together and going very fast close hauled with booms to port. They are carrying 3 head of sails, sprit topsails and mainsails.

11 a. m.—The wind is hauling to the eastward and is freshening. It is blowing from fifteen to twenty miles, and the race promises to be a quick one.

11:05 a. m.—As the yachts crossed the line the Thistle was seen to be to windward. They are heading east northeast sailing on a course laid towards Far Rockaway. The Volunteer is out-pointing the Scotchman. They have become very indistinct objects on the misty horizon and will soon disappear from view unless the fog clears away. Their relative positions were unchanged when last seen, being only about 500 yards apart.

11.35 a. m.—The wind is blowing 24 miles an hour, and is freshening. It is due east. At this rate the yachts ought to make the outward mark inside of three hours from the start. They ought to make the run over in one hour and forty minutes.

12.20 p. m.—The wind has increased several miles within the last half hour. A steamboat which has just come into the Horseshoe reports having passed the yachts eight miles north-northeast of the starting boat. The Volunteer was leading the Scotch cutter by an eighth of a mile. The sloop was to windward and both carrying working topsails, and the Volunteer stood up much better than the Thistle. There is only one wire working on the Sandy Hook coast, and that is working badly. The rainstorm has put the wires down in the woods.

12.30 p. m.—The Volunteer leads the Thistle more than a mile off Long Beach.

LONG BEACH, 12.45 p. m.—Both yachts are standing south, and the Volunteer is rapidly running away from the Thistle, and is now 1¼ miles ahead.

1:11 p. m.—The Volunteer has just been sighted on the misty horizon. She is very faint and indistinct, but she is coming like the fleet-winged dickey drives her. Nothing can be seen of the Thistle as yet. The excursion fleet is in the Yankee's wake, they are heading for the Scotland light, Highlands. There is no doubt about the leading boat being the Volunteer. She is bowling along in splendid style, but no big boat yet in sight. The cutter's advocates say that the Thistle is badly beaten. A crowd is gathering on the Highlands to witness the finish.

1:20 p. m.—The Volunteer has turned the stake boat and is returning to the finishing line with spinnaker to port and mainsail to starboard. She broke a balloon jib topsail after rounding. The sea is going down a trifle. The Volunteer appears to take to the swell with better grace than the Thistle. The latter is all a swash. She buries her bows dreadfully and it is plain to be seen she is carrying too much canvas. The flagship Electra is running on the starboard of the Volunteer. All the excursion boats are steering ahead, giving her a great deal of their wash.

1.30 p. m.—The yachts are in sight one mile south of Long Branch, where the turning stakeboat is stationed. The Volunteer is to the windward and leading by one mile. She will turn the stakeboat in about ten minutes. She has her mainsail, forestaysail, jib and working jib topsail set. The Thistle has a like complement of sail set.

2 p. m.—Volunteer two miles ahead. Poor auld Scotland!

2 p. m.—The wind has fallen at this point to 16 miles an hour. The yachts are not yet in sight. The atmosphere is clear.

2.30 p. m.—Volunteer turned the stakeboat at 2.25. Thistle not yet turned. Volunteer 1¼ miles ahead.

2 p. m.—The Thistle is fifteen minutes behind; wind east, 22 miles.

3 p. m.—The Thistle turned the stakeboat at 2.42 p. m., 17 minutes behind the Volunteer. Wind 20 miles.

4:20 p. m.—Volunteer beat the Thistle about three miles.

3:55 p. m.—The Volunteer is now four miles from the finishing line. The Thistle is about two miles astern and alongside the Mohican. Both boats have their spinnakers to work. The wind is blowing 12 miles, east northeast.

HIGHLANDS, 4:35 p. m.—The Thistle finished at 4:34.

Hughes-Hallett Scandal.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Col. Hughes-Hallett, who is accused by the Pall Mall Gazette of having maintained improper relations with Miss Beatrice Selwyn, states that he did not see much of the lady until the past summer, when she being free of all control by her relatives, lived alone in London and he accompanied her to many English watering-places. It is stated that she and Henry Smith, a barrister and lord lieutenant of Norfolk, were appointed guardians of his (Hughes-Hallett's) children by Selwyn. Mr. Smith invited Col. Hughes-Hallett and Beatrice to visit him at his home, and while they were there Mr. Smith's suspicions were aroused by their actions. On August 15th he went to Col. Hughes-Hallett's bedroom and found it vacant. He then went to the room occupied by Beatrice, but the door was locked and he could not gain admission. Mr. Smith then called the housekeeper, two housemaids, a lady's maid and other servants, and directed the coachman to burst open the door. Col. Hughes-Hallett, who was in the room, was taken completely by surprise, and while dressing was subjected to a torrent of abuse from Mr. Smith and everybody present, while he (Hughes-Hallett) kept perfectly quiet. As soon as Col. Hughes-Hallett was dressed Mr. Smith sent him to the railway station and subsequently informed his friends elsewhere of his conduct. He also telegraphed a statement to Col. Hughes-Hallett's wife, who condones the offense. Two days later Col. Hughes-Hallett received a letter from a lawyer demanding the return of £5,000 belonging to Beatrice. The money was paid over directly on receipt of the letter. Col. Hughes-Hallett then called on Captain Selwyn, Beatrice's brother, and offered to fight a duel with him, but the offer was not accepted.

Col. Hughes Hallett then offered to elope with Beatrice, and thus enable his wife to get a divorce, after which he said he would marry Beatrice. Selwyn also refused to accept this offer. Col. Hughes-Hallett is extremely bitter against Mr. Smith, whom he describes as pompous and vain, and who, while himself separated from his wife, lives not entirely from feminine control.

DRENCHED SOLDIERS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 29.—Another rain set in to-day making everything comfortless. Outgoing trains are filled with Grand Army veterans, and friends who have given up the attempt to enjoy the national encampment. Reunions by states and territories at Forest Post was made featureless by the absence of General Sherman and the war governors. They had already for two days mingled shelterless in the storm with the rank and file.

A HORRIBLE SPECTACLE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—A strange and horrible spectacle was witnessed by hundreds of persons in this city yesterday. A long string of wagons and cars were moving along Clark street, when H. J. Moore, 20 years old, started to cross the crowded roadway through a slight gap in the line between a truck and express wagon. A street car which was in front of the latter vehicle, stopped at the corner and the expressman was obliged to pull up suddenly, just as the man was crossing. The tail-board of the wagon was down, and it caught the unfortunate pedestrian on the side of the head, and the pole of the truck at the same instant struck him on the other side. He thus was slowly killed while standing upright before the eyes of thousands of people. His head was crushed like a shell. The truck driver hastily pulled back and the limp body of the unfortunate man tumbled to the ground.

He reviews the grounds of Manitoba's claim, arriving at the conclusion not only that Manitoba but the whole Northwest must be set free from monopoly. As the nation's faith must be broken, the Canadian Pacific will have to be indemnified.

INDIAN CANNIBALISM.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the living membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

A RETALIATORY MEASURE.

It is stated, says the Toronto News, that the purchase of horses in Canada for the Imperial cavalry and artillery service has been discontinued by the British government, as a measure of retaliation for the iron and steel duties imposed last session. The British farmers urged that if the Canadian government pursued a policy detrimental to English exporting interests, the Imperial government should buy no more horses in our market, and though that reason was not officially announced, no doubt it had much to do with the decision of the War office to that effect.

There is food for reflection in this litte incident for the very inconsistent people who try to combine extreme protectionism with ultra-loyalty. It was not Independence men, or annexationists, or Democrats, who passed the iron and steel duties for the express purpose of shutting out these important British staples from Canada.

MISTRESS OF THE SEAS.

The new British ironclad Trafalgar has been launched and is represented as being larger and more formidable than any other British ironclad afloat. The cost of this vessel is set down at four and a half million dollars. This seems to be a large sum to spend on an ironclad which may never be used, seeing that it can only be used in time of war and that war appears to be going out of fashion. But Britain is bound to retain her position as mistress of the seas. The naval review held a short time ago gave a pretty good indication of her standing as a naval power. A speech of the Secretary of State for the Admiralty made a year ago was either overlooked or not properly appreciated. Lord Geo. Hamilton said that the number of Her Majesty's ships in commission, both armored and unarmored, exceeds the combined forces of the three greatest naval European powers. "The steam tonnage of our mercantile marine," he said, "almost doubles that of the rest of the world, while the producing capacity of our private shipbuilding yards, so far as the construction of iron and steamships is concerned, is equal to four and a half times the total power of all the other nations combined." In this reserve Britain has a naval resource which is absolutely unlimited if it be properly administered and organized. On the sea Britannia could hold her own with all or any of the powers, although the Peace Society has just been expressing the hope that there may be no further need for the explosion of gunpowder in anger. The queer thing is that as soon as a formidable ironclad is built a bigger gun than ever is turned out, and as soon as the big gun is turned out a still more formidable ironclad is constructed. So it has been for years, and so it continues.

METEORIC STONES.

The Nova Scotia meteor, which attracts so much attention, says the Halifax Chronicle, turns out to be one of those comparatively large bodies that are known to be constantly wandering through space, ready to rush toward the surface of a planet when they get near enough to feel the force of its attraction. It may prove to be as large as the immense aerolite which fell in Pennsylvania a year or more ago. The apparent swiftness of its flight, and the great extent of country over which it was seen, indicate a projectile of huge size and weight. The effect which the vivid light caused by its passage through the air had upon the optic nerves of observers is somewhat amusing. Nearly every one who obtained a good view of the phenomenon from any position within two hundred miles of where it fell, felt certain that it came down in his immediate vicinity. The unexpected and overpowering radiance for the moment created an artificial daylight that completely distorted human vision, and made the observations of usually correct eyes entirely unreliable. But there are a few facts regarding the appearance of this meteor which are self-evident. It was seen at Pictou after its material had become incandescent; and yet, meeting the earth from a south-easterly direction, in its north-westerly passage it could not have come within two hundred miles of that town. This shows that the wanderer took fire almost at the instant that it came in contact with the atmosphere, at an elevation of not less than forty-five miles. If the body actually separated into fragments before reaching the earth there should have been a terrific explosion. It is somewhat remarkable that we have no authentic account of a loud report. However, the state of the atmosphere has a great deal to do with that matter. Under other conditions than those which may have existed Thursday evening, the crash would have been heard through a radius of hundreds of miles. The stone which is said to have fallen near the line of the New Brunswick railroad is evidently only part of the meteor, and other pieces may be found in localities many miles apart. The rate at which these bodies penetrate space is not approached by that of any other material substance. Careful estimates by reliable astronomers give the average speed of aerolites as not less than 80 miles a second, which is 4,800 miles a minute and 288,000 miles per hour. This lively style of travelling alone is thought to prove that they come from beyond the limits of of the solar system. A body shooting from the distance of Neptune could not acquire more than one-third of that velocity. Meteoric matter has recently been subjected to a severe chemical analysis in order to certainly determine whether it contains any substance which may have resulted from vegitation. If it can be proved that such is the case the fact will be demonstrated that the meteor was some time a part of a world like our own. It is reported that a late experiment in Berlin conclusively proved that a fragment of the great aerolite that exploded over Poland some years ago contains the undoubted remains of vegetable matter. In other words, the spectrum analysis of light produced by this substance, while in an incandescent state, clearly indicates the presence of carbon, a substance which, in all cases, may be traced back to a plant origin. These large visitors from interplanatary space seldom appear at the times when the earth is passing through the regular meteoric zones. These belts of innumerable small bodies are now pretty well defined, and astronomers can tell almost the exact moment when the earth enters the space that they occupy. For several years past they have not been sufficiently numerous to attract general attention; but there are many reasons to believe that the November meteors of this season will be particularly numerous and beautiful.

A Truly Self Made Lady.

"You seem to be much attached to your wife," said the governor of Arkansaw addressing an old negro who had just paid a tribute to the ruler of his household.

"I is, sah, powerful. Dat lady is one ermong er thousand, an' does you know dat she's self made lady?"

"A self made lady!"

"Yes sah, she's a self made lady. When we fust maird, she was a sort o' helpless critter. Been raised roun' de house 'mong de white folks, an' didn't gin much o' promise dat she would eber 'mount ter much, an' I was sorter slow 'bout matru her, 'I wife,' 'ease I'se putty much o'er bimoss man mese'f. An' fust it was erbout as much as she could do ter draw er bucket o' water, but 'stead o' flingin' stumblin' blocks in her way, I 'couraged her, I did."

"How? By drawing the water yourself?" the governor asked.

"Oh, no, sah; by gittin' er smaller bucket dat she could han'le. Ef I had er drawed de water mese'f she neber would er been er self made lady. She'd er tied er red han'kerchuk 'round her head an' sung er lonesome song in de back yard, an' I does think, sah, dat de song o' er 'oman dat has dun gin up hope is de lonsomest thing in de worl'. Yas, sah, I got de lady er smaller bucket, an' ter show her how fur I was frum throwin' stumblin' blocks in de lady's way, I greased de win'lass. I let it run erlong dis way erwhile, an' den I put on de big bucket."

"Then she went right along, I suppose?"

"She made er fine, sah. An' erpin at fust she made er mighty hard out at chippin' wood. She didn't take kin'ly ter de ax, but I wa'n't de man ter fling stumblin' blocks in de way o' mine own wife."

"You relieved her of that laborious duty, then, I suppose?"

"Yas, sah, I 'liebed her might'ly. I got her er ax dat wa'n't nigh so heaby. Den she dun powerful well; 'prubed so fas' dat it wa'n't long till she could han'le de heaby ax monstrous fine. But yer outer see dat lady now, gub'ner. She ken fetch in er log o' wood ez well ez any pusson, an' out in fiel' she ken make er mule powerful tired 'fore de sun goes down. Oh, yas; she's er se'f made lady, but I 'knowledges dat she wouldn't be sich er fine pusson of I had acted mean an' flung stumblin' blocks in her way."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Vividly Recalling the Incident.

They were over in the camp last evening, talking about military matters and war and so on, and the talk drifted around to personal bravery, and finally some one brought up the subject of presence of mind in danger.

"That reminds me," said the colonel, "of an incident that happened when I was but a lad. I was very fond of crows' nesting. One day I discovered a nest in the very top of a lofty bull pine, fully 100 feet high. Up I swarmed. In the nest were four young crows and one egg. It was the work of a minute to wring the young crows' necks and throw them out. Then placing the egg in my mouth for convenience, I commenced my journey down. It seems but yesterday," said the colonel softly. "I looked up; the beautiful blue sky was above me, and the crows, whose nest I had despoiled, were wheeling in short circles, uttering angry cries. Suddenly, without an instant's warning, the limb on which I was resting broke and I fell—ninety feet from the top! I lived a hundred lives in that one moment!" The colonel's voice trembled. He brushed his hand across his eyes.

"What! you fell ninety feet, colonel!" exclaimed a young subaltern.

The colonel gazed on him compassionately. "No, you young ignoramus. I was ninety feet from the top when I fell; consequently I fell about ten feet. But the jolt I got broke that egg. Bah! I can taste it yet."

The colonel gazed around suggestively, and he got something to take the taste out of his mouth. And they all had some.—Washington Critic.

Trichinæ in a Human Body.

Trichinæ have been discovered in a human body which was being prepared for anatomical demonstration at the University of Camerino. The man had lived for many years in a neighboring commune, and died without the presence of the trichinæ being suspected. Peculiar interest attaches to the case for the reason that it is said to be the first case of trichinosis ever observed in Italy. —Science.

The Snail and Its Load.

A late observer, Mr. E. Sandford, reports having used a common snail carry a load of two and a quarter ounces up a perpendicular wall in one night, being but a quarter of an ounce. A snail weighing a third of an ounce drew a load of seventeen ounces on a horizontal table, and supported four ounces while crawling on the ceiling. It even climbed a thread with another snail on its back.

Pipes, Steam Exhaust and Discharge.

It is recommended by The Miller that all pipes, steam exhaust and discharge, be made as straight as possible, but always of ample area. Keep the steam end well oiled. The exhaust should have an area double the steam pipe. The pump should be firmly secured on a rock or masonry foundation, and in all cases be easily accessible for use.

WANTED NO "MEJUM" IN HIS.

The Sage Conclusion of a Minnesota Parent Who Objected.

"I don't want no spiritooleism in mine," said a red headed man with long hair, as he sat down in a saloon on Washington avenue. "There may be something in it, but I know all about it that I want to know," and he leaned back in his chair and looked solemnly at a companion.

"Wot's the matter with it?" asked the other.

"Gimme a little rye," said the red nosed man; "them's the only sperrits I want anything to do with," he continued, as the glass was set before him. "They're good enough for me."

"Wot's the matter with spiritualism?" repeated the companion.

"I ain't a sayin' nothin' 'gainst spiritooleism," he announced, guardedly, 'but I don't want any of it; I have had a little experience, and that settled me. My wife 'Mandy went to some of their meetin's and they kinder affected her. One of their hungry lookin' cusses come 'round to the house one day, and told 'Mandy she'd make a mejum like him if she'd take some lessons for $25. He gave a test, and called on 'Mandy's dead brother to show up. He come and they had a talk. He told 'Mandy that when she was a mejum she could call up any sperret she wanted to. That's what settled me. I didn't wait for nothin' more. I didn't argy with 'Mandy, 'cause I know it was no use. I watched my chance and got that cuss out in the medder and told him to git. He said he wouldn't. I just took and pounded him till he was black an' blue. He didn't wait another minit, but set out for the station like a 4-year-old runnin' away."

"Kinder pulverized him, did you?" remarked the listener.

"You bet, an' I did him up in brown with red dressin'."

"But wot made you kick on spiritualism?" asked the companion for the third time.

"I ain't sayin' anything against spiritooleism," reiterated the red nose man, "but I don't want 'Mandy to be no mejum. Now I don't want to run down 'Mandy. She's the best housekeeper in our county. There ain't no dirt 'round our house, and her butter an' bread is famous. But 'Mandy has her peculiarities, and they're kinder unpleasant at times. I ain't no fault finder, but still I can't make up my mind that I want them peculiarities 'round me all the time. Now 'Mandy's strong and the chances are she'll live longer'n I will. Now, if she was a meju n she could call my sperrit to her every time. I wouldn't have no peace in the other world at all. She'd keep me right by her an' I wouldn't have a chance to go visitin' in the next world," and he sighed gently.

Just then a harsh sound was wafted into the saloon. It evidently emanated from a female, and it sounded like a man filing a saw. The red nosed man rose with a wild look in his eye. He glanced at the back door and then looked toward the street. It was only a big colored woman disputing with the small boy. A mighty sigh or spasm of relief shook his frame.

"I—I thought it was Mandy," he said. "I left her at the hotel."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Identified Him.

A Bismarck woman was inquiring about the wreck. She had expected her husband on the train that was thrown from the bridge. The conductor did not know of a man of her name on the train, but said a man who was talking about the "Missouri slope" just before the accident occurred was killed.

"How did he talk, enthusiastically or indifferent?"

"Enthusiastically—very."

"Oh, indeed. What were his last words?"

"Well, as I remember, the car was lying on top of him, and he was in an argument with another passenger, who was also about squeezed out. The last words he said were: 'I tell you, my friend, if you say that Bismarck won't have another railroad—this—year—you—are—a—liar.' Then turning his eyes on the man who escaped, he said: 'If you want that lot you'd better close the deal quick. There will be three more roads in Bismarck this year; electric lights have been secured, water works will be'——but he died before the sentence was finished."

"Ah, yes, 'twas he," the woman murmured in a heart broken tone; "but did he make the sale? and do you really think we will have another railroad this year?"—Bismarck Tribune.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever. —Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until with a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

By Taking

three bottles of this medicine I have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendal T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

The Modern Queen of Hearts.

In the dark ages at his ease
Man helped himself to all degrees
Of learned distinction,
Nor dreamed that woman e'er could master
He Race, Vir Gil, or Zo Roaster
Without extinction.

But all is changed. In Greek and Latin,
By hives which learned drones have sat in,
Queen bees sip honey.
By classic streams they Homer spout,
And no male don can drive them out
For love or money.

But to our tale. Minerva Bryde
Was of our college halls the pride.
She thought in Greek.
In Sanscrit she could write a play.
The calculus she solved all day
Ere she could speak.

The dons of Cambridge owned that she
Could wax 'em on philosophee;
And as for science
Old fossils who could bones compare,
But who had lost in thought their hair,
Sought an alliance.

The fair Minerva, Queen of Hearts,
One day was capped Master of Arts.
She knew them all—
Logic, divinity and law,
Zoology, doxology; but, pshaw!
She beat old Sol.

Now many suitors sought to win
Minerva with their vapid chin
And polished cheek.
She bowed not on the Appian Way
To any man who could not say
"Ice cream" in Greek.

For she was lovelier than the dawn,
And lithe of figure as a fawn.
Out of his mind
One fellow wrote a song;
His quantities, poor wretch, were wrong.
She cut him blind.

But, ah! a lovely youth there came,
A very Paris, and his game
Was, with a ball,
Played by the Greeks in Athens when
The gods were young. Of all the men
He had the call.

A champion he, whose mighty bat
Had laid full many a Hoosier flat.
His aim was true
When at a rival head, Rudolph,
With eye unerring, as in golf,
The baseball threw.

One eye he came. Torn were his clothes,
And on a patch he wore his nose,
Arm in a sling.
"Miner-va," cried the youth, with glee,
"We've busted 'em. Hoorah!" and she Said: "Ting-a-ling."

She was the belle. Ah, it was sweet.
She bade him kneel down at her feet,
And crowned him then,
"My best and bravest, Sec of Arts,
The Master gives thee hers." No carts.
He jacet perma.—pen.

California Snakes.

The eastern boom, I mean the boom made by eastern people with money, has started up some of the old dead industries of California. With the easy progress of civilization the good old industry of lying had almost died out. It got discouraged, and so many wonderful things had happened elsewhere that it was hard for the Californian imagination to meet the necessities. It was easier to give up lying to strangers altogether, for even the most unbelieving eastern could swing the belt on a California guide or stage driver. These gentry are now awakening from their lethargy and beginning to make the Yosemite and other trips lively. A friend of mine from the east has just come back from the Yosemite and he relates his experience. The stage driver found out that he was seriously afraid of snakes and immediately proceeded to make his hair stand on end.

"Venomous reptiles! You bet. I don't know what reptiles is, but them snakes, you can just bet your life, is venomous. Why, one day I was scomin' down here drivin' a wagon, when I catches sight of a snake in the brush, all ready for a spring. My horses starts an' I whips 'em up fast to clear the snake, don't you see, afore he could spring. He makes one clear spring, the snake does, an' he misses the horses."

"That was lucky—but you—you"——

"Lucky! You bet your life it was lucky. He missed the horses, the snake did, but he stuck his fangs clean through the wagon."

"You don't say!"

"I do say, and mebbe you won't believe it; but it's a fact. He stuck his fangs clean through that wagon, an' it swelled up so bad that we had to leave it by the wayside and take the horses home."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Around the Mahogany.

"Yes," said Miss Breezy, of Chicago, "it is a pleasure to dine at the Wabashes. Mrs. Wabash is naturally hospitable, and aside from the general excellence everything is served in a way that is positively delightful to a person of cultured tastes. And her soups are delicious. Why, do you know," went on the young lady, "that last evening I was served to soup three times, and could easily have gone one more."—New York Sun.

Dogs Cruelly Treated.

Mr. Brown, who is reading a newspaper—"Bergh ought to be down in Texas. There is a fine field for him there.

Mrs. Brown—Are the poor brutes treated so badly in Texas?

"They are. Just think of putting poor bloodhounds on the track of negroes who have assaulted women and children."—Texas Siftings.

Seashore Chestnuts.

Next summer they'll "spoon" by the sad sea waves,
And "mash" on the sandy shore;
And they'll speak of rest in the ocean's graves,
Over which the wild billows will roar.

The same old story'll be told once more;
He'll quote poetry, she'll coo like a dove,
They'll speak of this life as a terrible sore
Unless sure of each other's love.

I wouldn't father the lies they'll tell
In their fooling—A wretched old trick;
The "chestnuts" and "rats," we know very well,
Will be sure to make the sea sick.

—Goodall's Sun.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

The way of the transgressor is generally agreed to be hard, but he undoubtedly deserves it all.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Husband (who has been looking at a house, to wife)—But why don't you like the house? It has two large parlors, a cozy library and drawing room, a beautiful dining room, three bath rooms, and the kitchen arrangements are perfect and the rent low. Wife (shaking her head)—Only seventeen closets, John.—New York Sun.

Gingseng—Congratulate me, father; I'm going to be married. Gingseng's Father—Ah, but do you think the lady will be able to support you in the style to which you have been accustomed?—Pittsburg Dispatch.

It is suggested that the plan of executing criminals by electricity will give relations the chance to say that their luckless kinsman was struck by lightning.—Philadelphia Call.

It is generally conceded that women dress to attract the admiration of men, and The Pittsburg Dispatch asks: "But why do men dress?" Well, because they look better that way. They would attract altogether too much attention if they didn't dress.—Norristown Herald.

A Chicago man paid $1,000 for a copy of the Bible. When he reaches the passage treating of swine you will hear from him. He will want his money back with a loud and angry want.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Women are frightful gossips, we know, but if they were not their husbands would miss a great deal of entertaining information about the neighbors.—Boston Journal of Education.

Representative Beriah Wilkins tells of an Indiana granger who recently called on the president, shook hands with him vigorously and long, looked him over from head to foot, and then remarked: "Wa-al, wa-al! Here I hev ben votin' for presidents nigh onto fifty year, an' I'll be gollshated ef you ain't the fust one I ever see! Jes' shake agin, will yer?"

Most of the 150 persons killed by the eruption of the new volcanoes in Mexico are found to have died of fright. It is supposed that when the Mexicans saw the lava running down the mountain sides they mistook it for soap.—Detroit Free Press.

A student, being desirous of learning whether there was any truth in the statement that Seneca was addicted to drunkenness, opened an illustrated encyclopedia, and having found the name of the celebrated philosopher, the first object that met his gaze was a woodcut, beneath which were the words "Seneca, after an ancient bust." The ardent investigator, finding his worst fears confirmed, looked no further.—Chicago Herald.

'Twas Ever Thus.

A very little child looked wistfully at an older sister last evening.

"Did Mr. Fiance bring you any candy to-night?" she asked.

"No, Edith."

"Did he bring you any last night?"

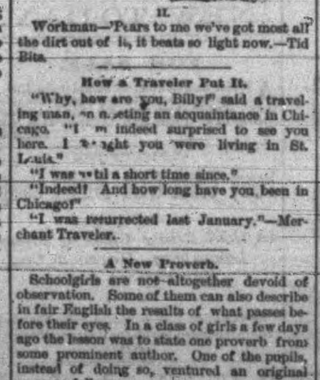
"No; I will give you some as soon as he does."

"That's just it," cried the little creature, breaking into tears. "Now that you're engaged to him he doesn't find it worth while to pay you any more attention."—Philadelphia News.

Deceived.

I.

Tramp—'Tain't every day a feller gits such comfortable place as this to take a snooze.



II.

Workman—'Pears to me we've got most all the dirt out of it, it beats so light now.—Tid Bits.

How a Traveler Put It.

"Why, how are you, Billy?" said a traveling man, on meeting an acquaintance in Chicago. "I'm indeed surprised to see you here. I thought you were living in St. Louis."

"I was until a short time since."

"Indeed? And how long have you been in Chicago?"

"I was resurrected last January."—Merchant Traveler.

A New Proverb.

Schoolgirls are not altogether devoid of observation. Some of them can also describe in fair English the results of what passes before their eyes. In a class of girls a few days ago the lesson was to state one proverb from some prominent author. One of the pupils, instead of doing so, ventured an original essay as follows:

"The girl that has a dog cart never lacks friends."—Boston Transcript.

Trying to Reach a Verdict.

Court Officer—A message from the jury room, your honor.

His Honor—What do they want—further explanation of evidence?

Court Officer—No, your honor; they want a fresh box of cigars.—New York Sun.

An Appropriate Name.

"John, did you ever observe the fondness of Dr. Blank and his wife for each other?"

"I hadn't noticed it specially. What makes you think so?"

"Why, Mrs. Blank always called the doctor her duck."

"Ah, yes! That's because he is a quack."—Newman Independent.

A Source of Sin.

"Don't you know," she said to Bobby, who was impaling a fly on the point of a pin, "that it is wicked to catch flies?"

"It is wickeder to miss 'em, as the Giants do," responded Bobby, who is something of a baseball expert.—New York Sun.

How to Make a Bandage.

Bandages for surgical purposes are easily made. Cut an old sheet into strips about two inches wide. To join two strips, lay the ends over each other so that there will be one raw edge on each side of the bandage, then sew them together so as to form a flat joining with no hard ridge. Roll up the bandage as compactly as possible, keeping the edges even. When rolled, turn the end to form a point, fasten it with a pin, pull off the ravelings from the edges and the bandage is ready for use.

—As may be seen in our advertising column the P. C. G. M. Co. have closed their subscription list. Shares in this company, we learn, are already commanding in our lively sister town of Vancouver a handsome premium. We congratulate the company on their success and hope investors will be rewarded.

—Our Vancouver contemporary, the News, referred in a courteous and flattering manner to the letters of our representative on the Mainland, whereat our morning contemporary becomes green with envy and shouts "sour grapes." Kind words from friends are always appreciated, but we derive almost as much advantage and profit from the errors and misrepresentations of the Colonist. Abuse from a certain class is always acceptable.

The Victoria Nobility.

Mr. G. A. Hart, of the Citizen's Insurance Company, claims precedence in rank over the Baronets and Knights we named in our issue of the 27th inst., as residing in Victoria, he being heriditary Lord or Seignior of Beaucaccour, and therefore a French nobleman. Mr. Hart's family settled in Lower Canada in 1760 and claims to be the senior British family of the Dominion.

Under Difficulties.

The improvements being made on THE TIMES' building, and the removal of the plant to the second story, has interfered so much with the editorial and typographical departments for the past few days, that it was only with the greatest difficulty we could issue at all. In a few days more the work will be completed, when we will be in a better position than formerly. Any apparent shortcomings will, we feel sure, be overlooked in the meantime.

Smoke "Creme de la Creme" Cigars.

"C" Battery.

The requisite number of men have been enlisted and the battery will arrive before the end of October. Agricultural Hall, near Beacon Hill, will be fitted up as a temporary barracks, a lease having been taken for one year. The officers will reside in lodgings. The battery will consist of 106 officers and men. These men will be quite an acquisition and will make our park more attractive than heretofore. Applications have poured in upon the militia department for places in the battery and no difficulty was experienced in obtaining the requisite number of men.

Really! The Creme de la Creme.

The Opium Smugglers.

Robert A. West, at Detroit, was alleged to be the agent for a huge opium smuggling syndicate which operated in the United States, at Victoria, B. C., on the Canadian Pacific railroad, and at Windsor, opposite Detroit. Last October ten boxes of opium were smuggled through, and in November a similar quantity. The combined weight was sixteen hundred pounds, and the value of the drug was about $24,000. The preventive service spent thousands of dollars in working up the case. West was finally arrested in Detroit. The trial was set for the 22nd, when West filed a plea of nolo contendere, and was fined $500. It is supposed that he would leak about the syndicate, but whether he has done so or not is still known to the public.

The commission will enquire into the several grievances of the Naas Indians, and report to their respective governments. They are not, as stated by a contemporary, vested with power to "settle" the matters in dispute. The Indians claim the land as original owners and demand larger reserves. The commissioners will proceed north on the Sir James on Monday or Tuesday next.

The following appointments have been made:

James McIntosh, Kamloops, to be a Justice of the Peace for Yale District.

Harry Oswald Wellburn, Quamichan, to be a Justice of the Peace for the Province.

J. P. Planta, of Nanaimo, commissioner to enquire in conjunction with Dominion Commissioner Cornwall into the grievances of the Naas River Indians.

Lumbermen's Wages.

Following are the average wages in Puget Sound logging camps: Skid greasers, $30 a month, this being the lowest position in the crew; swampers, barkers and hook-tenders get about $40; the skidders, who must keep the road in repair, get $50, if proficient; log-cutters receive about $60, and a teamster, handling from three to eight yoke of oxen, which he must take care of and shoe, receives from $60 to $125. Cooks get from $40 to $100, according to size of crew. The head sawyers in the mills get from $100 to $125 per month; other sawyers, $60 to $65; oilers, about $80. Hands employed generally about the mill are paid $30 to $40 per month. The price of good logs is $7.50 per thousand, and every mill on Puget Sound is running on full time.

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. *

The Yacht Race.

The American yachtsmen have added another victory to the long list they have won since the America captured the Queen's cup in 1851. The Volunteer today won the second race, beating the Thistle with greater ease than in the first match, notwithstanding that a twenty-mile breeze was blowing, which it was claimed would be favorable to the Scotchman. The American yacht has beaten the saucy Thistle on her merits, and there should no longer be any doubt as to the supremacy of the yachts of this country. As the Volunteer has won two races the third will not be sailed. The old country yachtsmen will, like true sportsmen, bear their defeat with good grace and will cross the Atlantic determined as before to build a vessel that will outstrip the best that the Yankees can procure.

Mrs Elford's Death.

The news of the demise of Mrs. Elford reached us shortly before going to press last evening. The suddenness of the shock was keenly felt by the many friends of the estimable young lady, and the sorrowing husband in his sad bereavement has the sympathy of a numerous circle of friends. The Scriptures have been verified for "in the midst of life we are in death." Mrs. Elford was a consistent Christian, and has gone before to reap the reward of a life spent in the service of her Divine Master. She was a daughter of the late Capt. John Robertson, of Cleveland, Ohio and was cut off at the early age of 32 years. The deceased was a member of the Methodist Church. The funeral will leave the family residence, Fort street above Cook, at 3 p. m. on Sunday, and will proceed from thence to Ross Bay Cemetery.

CREMAINUS NEWS.

Movements of Citizens—Bush Fires—Sam. Gray's Cheery Reading Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway have started on their trip to Quebec; while Mr. Ed. Raymond, a gentleman worthy of respect, and who has had wide railroad experience, becomes superintendent of the lines.

Messrs. John Croft and W. Pell have started for a week's hunt on the mountains; but they must be careful to point at the game before they draw the trigger. We shall question them when they return.

Bush fires have been very extensive this summer; but fortunately they have spread inland, so that no damage has really been done.

A fine horse of Mr. Conway's was sent to Victoria recently for buggy purposes there.

Mr. James Cathcart is not around as usual, having slightly sprained his back while loading hay. We hope he will be enabled to join us soon.

Mr. S. Gray has been entirely renovating his reading room, and the added comforts attract more pleasurists. Genial gentlemen, such as our friends Messrs. Little, Brooks, and Pafford, delight to be there, and, we were going to say, would make it their abode; besides it is whispered there are just three chairs a few sizes larger than the rest. Of course, we know these articles of furniture may be made of any magnitude; but it is better to have them made to order.

We had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Habbart's place on Sunday. Perhaps the truth is not much stretched when it is called the best farm on the Island. Our host and hostess treated us very kindly.

A little rainfall yesterday in the neighborhood.

ON THE WING.

Movements of People We Know and have Read of.

Mr. W. E. Graveley leaves for the Bay City to-morrow.

Capt. Dan Morrison is about again having entirely recovered from the effects of the accident at Wellington.

Mr. C. Hayward, jr., will leave for California by the Mexico to-morrow. His health necessitates a trip to a warmer climate.

Mr. Alexander and Mr. D. Oppenheimer, two of Vancouver's aldermen, left on the Yosemite this morning.

Mr. Frank will be a passenger on the Black Diamond to-morrow.

Fathers Verbeke and Lemmens will leave for Clayoquot Sound to-morrow.

Mr. R. M. McLeod news editor of the Ottawa Free Press, is in the city en route to San Francisco on a holiday tour. He leaves for the south on the Mexico and will return east by one of the American transcontinental lines.

MARINE.

The Bolivian bark Don Adolpho, late Von Moltke, arrived from San Francisco on Wednesday night, and was towed up last night to the Chemainus saw mill to load with lumber.

Mr. N. Bichard, of San Francisco, bought the bark Arabella, which has been lying in Victoria harbor for some time, yesterday afternoon. The price paid is not stated. The same gentleman bought yesterday the bark Buena Vista, now at Port Townsend, and both vessels will go for lumber to the Chemainus mill of Messrs. Croft & Angus. Mr. Bichard is also the owner of the Don Adolpho and the bark Constitution, which are advertised to start from San Francisco on the 7th October with freight for Victoria and Nanaimo.

The Black Diamond will leave for Clayoquot Sound to-morrow.

Messrs. Welch, Rithet & Co. received no news to-day regarding the Mexico and it is surmised that she floated off at high tide. The delay will not deter the steamship from sailing at 1 p. m. to-morrow.

POLICE COURT.

(Before E. Johnson, Q. C., S. M.)

A family quarrel was settled by the non-appearance of the plaintiff.

Phillip McKay, an Indian, arrested by Officers Robb and Abel and charged with being drunk. Fined $5 or one week.

J. Costello, a Mexican, charged with supplying liquor to an Indian. Discharged.

First Jewish Congregation.

A curious find has been made in connection with the old Portuguese Jewish synagogue, which is being pulled down in Montreal. While the corner stone was being moved from its position a small lead casket with "1835" stamped on its face was noticed, with a number of ancient and modern coins lying on top of it. Amongst these were coins of Spain, Portugal, Great Britain and the United States, and some early Spanish coins which are supposed to have been brought out by Jewish colonists. They are in a good state of preservation, although some of them are dated 300 years ago. On opening the casket a package wrapped in vellum was found, containing an inscription dated 1777. It showed that the first Jewish congregation in Canada was formed in Montreal in that year.

Harvest Services.

The third annual harvest thanksgiving and choir festival was held at Christ Church Cathedral last evening, and was attended by a large congregation. The church was most beautifully decorated for the occasion, and looked prettier than ever before. At 7:45 the Cathedral choir, numbering 30 voices, followed by the Bishop and clergy, entered the north door and marched up the centre aisle, singing the harvest hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come." The service was intoned by the Revs. Beansland and Davis. A new anthem by Tours, "While the Earth Remaineth," with solo, sung by Mr. H. Kent, was rendered by the choir, assisted by members of other choirs in the city, in a very efficient manner, reflecting great credit on the leader, Mr. H. Kent. The sermon was preached by Rev. W. W. Bolton, and was listened to with great attention. The benediction having been pronounced by the Bishop, the choir marched out of the church singing the 223 hymn. The following clergymen took part in the service, besides those already mentioned; the Very Rev. Archdeacon Scriven and the Rev. W. Taylor. Mr. A. Hookway presided at the organ in his usual good style.

EXCLUSIVE SALVATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—In reply to "LEX" allow me to say that Christ being Divine, could not err. That part of his syllogism is admitted. "Christ," he says, "established a Divine church, i. e., an unerring church. This I take leave to deny, without in any way seeking to disparage the character of the Christian church as an institution ordained of God for the diffusion of Christian truth and the salvation of men. It will be well here to ask what is meant by the word "church" when used in the sacred scriptures? Is it a select few having sacerdotal authority to legislate for and rule over the body of believers in Christ throughout the world; or does it embrace all those who believe in Jesus as the Divine Saviour, and who take his words as the rule of our faith and practice? In its broadest sense I understand the latter to be the true definition of the word "church." When Christ made choice of his twelve apostles and sent them forth to preach, they constituted what may be considered the nucleus of the Christian church. To them were given extraordinary powers to heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, and cast out devils. Yet that these men were not infallible, unerring mortals, subsequent events clearly demonstrate. Peter not long after denied his Lord, and Judas sold him for thirty pieces of silver. After the organization of a church of Corinth, there arose strife and divisions among its members, not a few of whom made sad shipwreck of their faith. Another proof that the Corinthian church was not an infallible institution. So with the seven churches in Asia. Every one of them went astray, and out of the seven but one was left whose candlestick was not removed to preserve it from total extinction. Surely it is not necessary to adduce any further testimony to disprove the assertion that Christ established on earth an infallible, unerring church, and that that church, through the lapse of nearly ten thousand years has come down untarnished by a single act of error, and is to-day as pure and spotless as the day when Christ said to his Apostles "Go teach all nations," &c. What cannot be said of the church as to its infallibility can be truly said as touching the grand fundamental truths taught by Christ, and after him by his accredited Apostles, as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. They wrote and spoke with the authority of inspiration, and what they wrote and spoke we accept as Divine truth, and as containing all that is necessary to be believed in order to be saved, both for time and eternity. Nor have we there any "exclusive salvation" in the sense that Father Bouchard would have us believe, but on the contrary the door of mercy is wide open to all who may choose to enter, and all are invited to "come up and partake of the water of life freely."

A PROTESTANT.

Don't

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is, themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist. *
